Then, to his unmeasured delight, the girl came demurely in with the crowd and found a seat almost opposite them. Miffin followed Wagstaff's enraptured glance.

"Is that the party you thought you knew?" he asked. "Well, no," Wagstaff said guiltily,

'but I wouldn't mind." After that it got to be a regular thing every morning for Wagstaff to watch for the girl and then to steal glances at her all the way to his station. She looked at him so calmly in gazing around the car day after day that he thought despairingly that she didn't know he was on earth.

Just when he was losing hope of ever getting acquainted with her something happened. One morning she got off at a station which the train reached before it arrived at Wagstaff's. More than that, Wagstaff saw a long handled umbrella resting against the window frame of the seat that she had just left.

Most diseases start in the alimentary canal-stomach and bowels. A great deal of our stomach and bowel troubles come from eating too much starchy and greasy food. The stomach does not digest any of the starchy food we eat-white bread, pastry, potatoes, oats, etc .these things are digested in the small intestines, and if we eat too much, as most of us do, the organs that should digest this kind of food are overcome by excess of work, so that fermentation, indigestion, and a long train of ails result.

Too much fat also is hard to digest and this is changed into acids, sour stomach, belching gas, and a bloated, heavy feeling.

In these conditions a change from indigestible foods to Grape-Nuts will work wonders in not only relieving the distress but in building up a strong digestion, clear brain and steady nerves. A Wash. woman
